C. J. ATWOOD, Sec'y-Treas.FRUIT AND SHADE TREES
SMALL FRUITS, ROSES, VINES
AND SHRUBBERY

TOPPENISH, WASHINGTON, 1928

To The Trade:

Fall digging is under way and stock is in excellent shape. Weather has been ideal and everything is maturing as it should.

Carload rates to some nearby distributing point. Our volume of sale enables us to assure you of this service if order is placed early.

Fruit trees are not plentiful, hence we have very few to offer.

FRUIT TREE SEEDLINGS One of our leading specialties. See special mention on the last page of this list.

SEEDLINGS

Do not overlook the decision of the Federal Horticultural Board wherein they state that apple, pear and Mazzard will be excluded after June 1, 1930.

All users of seedlings should place their orders this year and next year with American sources of supply so enough seedlings will be brought on to take care of the heavily increased demand after June 1, 1930.

CHINESE ELM (Ulmus Pumila)

This very remarkable tree thrives as well in the moister sections of the country as it does in the arid and semi-arid sections of the West.

On the Morris Estate, Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia is a Chinese Elm planted in the spring of 1912. It is now 62 inches in circumference, 40 ft. spread and 35 ft. high.

On the grounds of the Maryland State University, College Park, Md., are six Chinese Elm planted in the spring of 1923. At the time of planting they averaged  $2\frac{1}{2}$  inches in diameter. They now average 36 inches in circumference, 32 ft. spread and 30 ft. high.

Be sure to get your supply of seedlings now.
